If you are the victim or witness of a crime, you may need someone to talk to. The Support Centre in Lund also welcomes you if a member of your family is the victim of a crime.

Being a victim can awaken many different thoughts and feelings. They can be difficult to cope with, and you might not even understand why you having these kinds of reactions. There is no right or wrong way to react.

If you are the victim of a crime, you may also have a number of questions, such as:

- What happens during a criminal investigation?
- How does a trial work?
- What are my rights?

If you are younger than 25, the Support Centre offers:

- Counselling to help you work through your experience of the crime and its effect on your life
- Practical assistance in dealing with the police, prosecutor, insurance company, etc.
- Advice
- Support for family members
- Mediation

Mediation

The Support Centre also offers mediation whenever possible. The perpetrator and victim have the opportunity to sit down together with an impartial mediator and talk about the crime. Mediation is completely voluntary.

We are under an oath of confidentiality and the service is free of charge.
